

ENGLAND'S KING MUCH IMPROVED

Bulletins Give to the Waiting Crowds Hope of His Recovery.

IT WILL TAKE TIME

Physicians Say His Recovery Will Be Slow Even if All Goes Well.

THE NATION PRAYING

(Special By Scripps-Mellae)
London, June 28.—It is unofficially stated that the King's improved condition up to two thirty this afternoon had been maintained. Several members of the royal family were allowed to see him for a moment during the morning. The King may be removed from the bed to a couch tomorrow.

Joyful Bulletin
The King is now out of immediate danger, was the first official announcement regarding the King's condition today and as the result of this joyful intelligence the city is in a transport of joy.

Passed A Good Night
A bulletin worded as follows: "King has had a good night and his improved condition has been maintained. We are happy to state that we consider his majesty to be out of immediate danger. His general condition is most satisfactory. The operation of the wound, however, still needs constant attention. Under the most favorable conditions his majesty's recovery must be protracted." When the bulletin was posted the crowds outside the gate raised a slight cheer.

More Progress
The six o'clock bulletin says: "The King passed a very comfortable day and his progress continues to be quite satisfactory." It is unofficially reported that he sat up for some time today.

Danger Still Threatens.
The fact of the presence of pain in the wound is so far encouraging, because if gangrene had set in there would have been no pain, but it must always be kept in mind that both tubes still remain in the body and many hours must pass before an attempt is made to remove the stitches.

His majesty's present diet cannot be continued indefinitely, although the intestines must be vastly repaired before stronger food can be administered. Lastly, it remains a fact that the surgeons have not yet tackled the vermiform appendix itself.

The abandonment of the coronation feastings has led to a number of riots at different places. The worst occurred at Watford, where, when it was announced that the dinner for the poor and the distribution of shillings and sixpences to children had been abandoned a mob stoned and wrecked the shops of the members of the committee having the affair in charge.

Shops Set on Fire.

The rioters lit a bonfire that had been prepared to celebrate the event, overwhelmed the police and threw the officers' helmets into the fire. Hundreds of other police were summoned, but they, too, were overpowered. The mayor read the riot act and swore in citizens as special constables to maintain the peace. There was desperate fighting and many persons were seriously hurt. A number of shops were sacked and set on fire.

In view of the expected extraordinary demand, dealers in supplies of all kinds laid in heavy stocks, hoping to reap large profits. The abandonment of the coronation and the dispersal of the crowds of visitors here, and the absence of the others that were expected, caused a slump in prices that will result in large losses to the dealers. Most of the supplies were of such a nature that it was necessary for them to be immediately consumed. A leading firm in the Smithfield market sold a ton of meat at a half-penny a pound. Fish and fruit were also sold at great loss.

Patient Reads Papers.

The king passed the evening comfortably. The queen was at his bedside for some time as was also the prince of Wales, but his majesty was not allowed to see the princess of Wales, nor any one except his own children. He reads a great deal and occasionally he is permitted to look at a newspaper. He also has been permitted to read an unexciting novel.

The medical men are now satisfied with the king's progress, which, though slow, is reassuring, after the alarm caused by Tuesday's relapse, when it was generally understood in palace circles that it was almost a case of life or death. His majesty throughout has exhibited remarkable fortitude, to which his physicians attribute his present favorable condition.

Fair Play Wanted.

"The young men nowadays," said the Tobaccoist to the Wooden Indian, sadly, "know so much more than the old men that I sometimes wonder why they don't start a kindergarten to properly fit us for the battle of life. It would be only fair play."—Syracuse Herald.

MINERS ATTEMPT MORE VIOLENCE

Try To Blow Up the Lehigh Collieries at Old Forge.

NO LIVES ARE LOST

Barricades Are Destroyed by Dynamite, But Guards Escape Injury.

DOES MUCH DAMAGE

(Special By Scripps-Mellae)
Old Forge, Pa., June 28.—An attempt to blow up the colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company was made last night but was unsuccessful and except for the destruction of the barricades erected for the guards no damage was done.

Narrow Escape
The colliery has a large number of coal and iron police employed as watchmen stationed at the mouth of the mine and it is thought that the attempt was made in the hopes of killing some of them. Luckily they were all employed at the other side of the yards just at the time of the explosion and none of them were injured.

Dynamite Used
Whether the assailants were striking miners or sympathizers is not known. The act was done by throwing a stick of dynamite inside of the barricades by some one in the near vicinity and a terrible explosion followed.

Ordered to Convey 30,000 Acres to Uri L. Lamprey.

St. Paul, Minn., June 28.—Russell Sage must deed to Uri L. Lamprey of St. Paul 30,000 acres of land in twenty-six counties of central and northern Minnesota, worth $100,000. The case, which has been dragging through the courts for several years, was decided in a decision handed down by the supreme court, written by Chief Justice Start.

The point involved in the case is a sale of railroad land to Mr. Lamprey in 1887. The road claimed 30,000 acres were not paid for and sold the land to Russell Sage.

Besides the $30,000 purchase money there is $62,262.20 in taxes and penalties due, and if Mr. Sage has paid any portion of these taxes and penalties he will be entitled to recover the amount so paid from Lamprey.

Detroit, June 28.—Carl Thompson, alias George H. While Schwieger was showing Rogers $10,000 worth of diamonds the youth suddenly pointed a revolver at him. Schwieger called in the police. Rogers claimed it was all a joke. He had not touched the diamonds. At the jail he said: "Bad literature did it. My widowed mother is well-to-do and I have a good education, having graduated from a Chicago high school."

LA FOLLETTE IS LOSING GROUND

Milwaukee County Gives a Goodly List to the Conservatives.

WHITEHEAD LEADS

The Delegates So Far Chosen Give Him a Majority in the Convention.

FOND DU LAC IS SAFE

Returns from Milwaukee county show that the ball started some months ago in opposition to the governor and his machine is steadily growing in size. The 110 votes that were captured for the ranks of true republicanism out of the 146 allowed to the county demonstrate clearly that the sentiment of republicans is against LaFollette. Four years ago the LaFollette machine had 60 votes, the Scofield forces 79.

Not only is the result of Milwaukee county more than pleasing but the result in Fond du Lac county where every method known to tricky politics was used to capture the convention, is so decisive a victory for the conservative republicans that a new impetus is given to the fight.

The Fight
The LaFollette faction claimed the second district, 15 votes. At the convention yesterday when the LaFollette men lost by a test vote of 80 to 44 the delegates from the second district formed a "rump" convention and named their own delegates while the regular republicans named twenty-five representative men who are opposed to LaFollette's return to the gubernatorial chair.

To the LaFollette faction this is a sad blow as they had counted on the 15 votes and had placed them in their tables of sure delegates. The action of their followers in holding a "rump" convention is in keeping with their actions throughout the state. In every case where they have not been able to rule with an iron rod they have attempted to ruin and win by any old kind of methods.

Waupaca For Spooner
Another hard blow to the machine men is the action of the Waupaca convention declaring for Spooner. While they elected LaFollette delegates, they also spoiled all of the governor's little plans by endorsing Spooner and advocating his re-election to the United States senate.

In Douglas County
LaFollette machine men now concede Douglas county to the conservative republicans. Formerly they claimed part of the delegation and used the figures to boost their list of delegates.

Outside Opinion
Sentiment as to the real meaning of the fight of Governor LaFollette against Senator Spooner is voiced in the following editorial from the St. Paul Pioneer Press that appears below. They voice the sentiment as seen to a man up a tree in a truly seer like manner.

Wisconsin is agitated by a lively contest over the election of delegates to the state convention and to the legislative conventions held by the supporters of Gov. LaFollette for renomination and the "stalwarts," as his opponents are called. Whether LaFollette shall win or fail is a matter in which little interest is felt outside of Wisconsin. But behind it and involved in it is another contest in which the people of the United States have a deep interest. The main object of Gov. LaFollette and his followers is to gain control of the legislature with a view to elect him to the United States senate in place of Senator Spooner. This purpose is not openly acknowledged and is even disavowed by some of the leading organs and supporters of LaFollette. It is cloaked under other issues on which it is expected to carry the legislature, but it appears to be generally understood that the gubernatorial and legislative contests are the preliminary moves in an underhand game to supplant Spooner with LaFollette in the senate.

The failure to re-elect Spooner would be a serious loss to the nation and much more than a serious loss to Wisconsin. It would be a disgrace to the state. For he is by all odds the most important and influential Republican in the senate. To all intents and purposes he is acknowledged the leader of his party in that body. On every important national issue of the day he is recognized as the ablest and most effective exponent and defender of its policies. As a debater he has no equal on the floor of the senate. As a conservative statesman he stands head and shoulders above his ablest colleagues and in every critical emergency he is the guiding hand which pilots the party to a safe anchorage through the storms of controversy and the reefs of party dissension. Wisconsin has gained a high degree of national prestige through the commanding ability and wise and prudent statesmanship of her distinguished son. His people are proud of him, and if the question were put to a popular vote he would be re-elected by an overwhelming majority of the voters of Wisconsin. Yet the Republican party in Wisconsin is so divided on local issues that it is quite possible that its majority in the legislature may be considerably reduced.

and may be so split up with dissensions on these issues as to imperil the election of a republican senator, or be so manipulated in the interest of LaFollette, if he is elected governor, as to defeat the re-election of Senator Spooner. There are evident grounds at least for the belief that Gov. LaFollette is ambitious to succeed Spooner and that he will leave no stone unturned to accomplish this cherished object of his political aspirations.

Admiral Says Soldiers at Manila Would Have Averted Trouble with Filipinos.

IS A GOOD WITNESS

(Special By Scripps-Mellae)
Washington, D. C., June 28.—Admiral Dewey resumed his testimony on the Philippine situation before the senate committee this morning. He explained the repeated offers of surrender of Manila by the Spanish governor general came in July not in May.

Refuses To Answer
Under cross examination the Admiral refused to say that the trouble the United States had in the Philippines was the result of Aguinaldo's evil influence.

Troops Were Needed
Dewey insisted that if the United States had had five thousand soldiers in Manila at the time of the destruction of the Spanish fleet to take possession of the city he did not believe he would have had any trouble with the Filipinos because they were friendly to the Americans and although Aguinaldo was being made much of he did not count for much.

Looting By Aguinaldo
The Admiral again stated that inside of forty-eight hours after the occupation of the city Aguinaldo began looting and that while he came to Manila without anything in a few days he was living like a prince at Malolos.

Refutes Statements
Despite statements that were read to him of General Otis, Bell and Green the Admiral still stuck to his statement that Aguinaldo was a looter and a robber.

HOT SHOT FOR SUGAR TRUST

Senate Flayed Because It Refused to Accept House Bill Unless It Gave Protection to the Combine—Hostile to All Monopoly.

Washington, June 28.—Democratic members of the House of Representatives met in caucus Friday evening to outline a policy. A number of speeches were made arraigning the majority in Congress and in support of a strong Democratic declaration. Congressman Richardson of Tennessee made the closing speech, at the conclusion of which the following declaration was unanimously adopted:

Sounds the Keynote.

Resolved. 1. That we condemn the Republican majority in Congress for their failure to pass a measure providing reciprocity with Cuba. The bill which passed the House of Representatives was heartily supported by the Democratic minority after the protection to the sugar trust had been removed by the solid Democratic aided by a small minority of the Republican members. At it passed the House the bill carried relief to Cuba, reduced the price of sugar to American consumers and struck a heavy blow at the notorious and obnoxious sugar trust. The refusal of the Republican senators to consider this measure unless the protection to the sugar trust should be restored gives evidence that the President and Republican party in Congress are willing to refuse relief to Cuba and totally ignore American consumers rather than abandon their alliance with the trusts. The failure of all reciprocity legislation with Cuba rests upon the Republican administration, which is willing to reduce the duty on the raw sugar of our producers, but unwilling to destroy the sugar monopoly.

Hits Republicans.

2. That the Republican majority in Congress is dominated and controlled by the trusts and monopolies which have the great industries of our country in their grasp, as shown by its action in passing an anti-trust bill through the House of Representatives in the fifty-seventh Congress in the closing hours of the session, the Senate refusing to consider the same, as a subterfuge to tide over the election of 1900. That bill has been abandoned, and they have ever since refused, and do now refuse, and fail to bring in any measure to suppress the trusts or to favorably report any of the numerous anti-trust bills introduced by Democratic members during this Congress.

3. That we favor the immediate passage of a measure to amend the present anti-trust law so as to more fully protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and also a measure to reduce the duties on all articles and commodities manufactured and controlled or produced in the United States by a trust or trusts so as to destroy such illegal combinations, and to reduce the rate of duty on any article of commodity manufactured in the United States and sold in a foreign country more cheaply than in the United States.

Opposes Adjournment.

4. We oppose the adjournment of Congress until the measures mentioned above have been enacted into law.

The caucus lasted only an hour and was devoted to a discussion of the terms of the foregoing resolution, which was drawn by Representative Jackson of Kansas and presented by Representative Griggs of Georgia, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee.

FAVOR ARBITRATION.

Federal Board to Investigate and Ad-Just Labor Troubles.

Washington, June 28.—The labor committee of the house has perfected and ordered a favorable report on the bill empowering the president to appoint federal arbitration boards to investigate and adjust strikes, lock-outs, etc., etc., are of such magnitude as to affect interstate commerce. The membership of the board was reduced to five members, three to be appointed by the president and one by each of the parties to a labor controversy. The duties of the board are to investigate and report the facts, the idea being that publicity of the actual facts will do much to compel an adjustment. Furthermore, provision is made that the contending parties may submit their case to the board of arbitrators for final decision, but this is not compulsory. The bill will be reported at once, but it is too late in the session to expect final action.

BLAST FURNACES USING COKE

Resume Operations Without Coal and Increase Their Shipments—King's Illness Induces Extensive Liquidation on the Foreign Exchanges.

New York, June 28.—"Foreign markets were badly disarranged by the sudden illness of the king and there was much liquidation prior to the closing of British exchanges from Wednesday afternoon to Monday morning. Domestic financial conditions are exceptionally satisfactory and trade is well maintained although low temperatures interfered with the distribution of midsummer specialties. Manufacturing operations have increased in activity, especially in the iron and steel industry and textile production, while the constructive work on new buildings and bridges is very heavy. Labor difficulties have not improved in the anthracite coal region, but numerous settlements have been effected elsewhere. Railway earnings thus far reported for June exhibit an average increase of 4.6 per cent over last year and 17.1 per cent over 1900." R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade thus sums up the industrial situation. Continuing the review says:

Blast Furnaces Resume.

"Most of the blast furnaces that were stopped by the scarcity of anthracite coal have resumed with coke, of which the ovens have established new records of output, and shipments have been still larger owing to the stocks accumulated during the car shortage.

"Eastern manufacturers of footwear report a larger volume of contracts, mainly for delivery in August and September. Leather has accumulated, and some tanneries are closed, but belting butts continue in demand at full prices.

"More activity occurred in cotton goods. Woolen goods have been taken more freely, especially the better qualities, and clothing manufacturers are preparing for a large fall trade. Raw wool is in better request at eastern markets, but the new clip is held at a premium that limits trade.

Crop Prospects Good.

"Agricultural products are far above the average, and rapid progress is made with winter wheat harvesting. Delays have been encountered from heavy rain, while injury has occurred in the Southwest from drought, but these adverse influences are less extensive than usual. Wide differences between cash prices and next crop options indicate the views of traders. The week brought little alteration in spot quotations, light supplies holding all cereals fairly steady. Inquiry in Texas has partially offset the splendid outlook in other cotton states, while the strong statistical position, together with liberal consumption and covering of short contracts at Liverpool, combined to cause a sharp rise in option prices and a moderate stiffening of spot cotton, but the advance was not maintained.

"Failures for the week number 200 in the United States, against 204 last year, and twenty in Canada, against twenty-three a year ago."

Maids of honor from Streator, Ottawa, Peru and Mendota were also selected by vote. These cities will be represented by Misses Katherine Dill, Edith Coulson, Emma Martens and Hulda Anderson, respectively.

Cape Town, June 28.—There has been a big fire in the heart of the city and several large business houses have been destroyed. The loss is very great.

Of the periodic pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from disease. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. T. Dolan, of Madrid, Perkins Co., Neb., writes: "I was cured of painful periods by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and his Compound Extract of Smart-Weed. I think Dr. Pierce's medicines the best in the world."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Kodol

Digests what you Eat

Dyspepsia Cure

Dyspeptics cannot regain health and strength by living upon half rations. They must eat plenty of good food and digest it. To enable them to do this they should use something that will help the stomach do its work. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE is such a preparation. It digests what you eat and supplies the substances needed to build up the worn out digestive organs.

Prof. J. Iverson, of Lonsconing, Md., says: "For thirteen years I suffered agony from dyspepsia and neuralgia of the stomach. I tried almost everything and doctors drugged me nearly to death with morphine, but temporary relief was all I could obtain till I was advised to use KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. The first dose gave me relief. I bought my first bottle in March, 1900, and I have not had a single pain since. It has completely cured me. I cannot endorse it too highly."

It can't help but do you good

WEATHER FORECAST

Unsettled tonight and Sunday with showers.

LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE.

"We spend lots of time growlin' at de rain, but soon as de rain is over we goes roun' lookin' fer roses.

Uncle Rasmus was a philosopher. He had discovered that the rain was necessary for the roses, and so the sun shine and shadow of life were both appreciated.

The philosophy of the old colored man is worth cultivating. It is so much easier to be happy in fair weather, than it is to offer praise and thanksgiving when the days are dark, that the army of fair weather christians never lacks recruits.

The average life in normal condition should be a happy life, and it is when the philosophy of everyday experience is taken in to account.

The discipline of the child is more necessary to happiness than the indulgence of every whim and while the child may not understand it the mother knows that the training develops traits of character that would otherwise lie dormant.

The task of the school room may seem unreasonable to the boy, but the teacher knows that if he would win in the greater tasks of young manhood, that he must master the grades.

There comes a time in the life of every young man and woman when they step out from restraint and become free men and women. The above disappointing, for there is no freedom is always disappointing for there is no master so exacting as the unwritten laws that govern independent man and womanhood.

These laws are so rigid that people frequently become cynical and sour. The world loses all of its brightness and every day is clouded and stormy. Envy fills the heart because fortune falls to smile. The environments of life are not favorable, and more fortunate companions pass them in the race.

The woman, back in the years of girlhood, had painted pictures of a home free from care, where wealth provided every luxury, but she is the wife today of an honest tailor, struggling to rear the little family that has come into the home, and economizing with every energy.

Unless love fills all the vacancies, and fringes every cloud with a silver lining, bitter disappointment shuts out the brightness and more time is spent in watching the rain than looking for the roses.

The man in middle life finds himself a plodder. The castles reared back in the years of boyhood never materialized. He had hoped to win fame, but it was a fleeting dream.

Wealth had proved as elusive as the rainbow, that he used to chase in the meadow.

He had planned to marry when he was thirty, and after he was fully established in business and able to own a home and support it in good style. But sentiment stole his heart at twenty-one and the care of a household had been on him for a dozen years. His wealth is not told in dollars, for he is never troubled to count possessions of this kind. The tax collector never annoys him to any great extent, and he has no occasion to worry about the mortgage.

When he sits in the twilight surrounded by the little group dependent on him for support, and attempts to inventory his possessions, results will be disappointing unless he recognizes in the wife and mother the same sweet faced girls who captured his heart back in the years when every day was filled with sun shine, and unless he finds in the little arms that cling about his neck and in the baby voice that lisps, "I love you papa," a wealth of riches that money can never buy.

Uncle Rasmus' soliloquy on poverty contains a very popular sentiment. He says:

"Poverty is sometimes a blessing, but when it comes I feels lak it ain't my time ter be blest."

The average home is not a palace, neither is it poverty stricken, and yet there is a world of discontent, because it is so much easier to look on the dark, than on the bright side of life.

The country just now is disturbed by labor troubles, incited by irresponsible leaders and encouraged by men whose loyalty to labor organizations is supreme. Many of these men who have no personal grievance, have the feeling that in some way capital should be evenly distributed; if this were done, they have a notion that life would take on a rosy hue and there would be no more days of darkness and disappointment.

There are some principles that govern in life that many people are slow to learn. One of them is, that money in itself is helpless and that the use of it, in the hands of inexperienced seldom fails to result in loss.

Ten thousand dollars to the man in middle life, who has failed to cultivate the ability to accumulate for himself, would be a curse and not a blessing. He could not live on the interest, and his lack of business experience would bar him from safe investment. He might put it into a home, but a $10,000 home on a $1,000 income, is worse than a $40,000 church with a poor clientele.

When the first man was turned out of the garden, a good many years ago, it was after the discovery was made that he needed to work and so the injunction, which is sometimes called a curse, but which is a blessing, was placed upon him and from that day to this, the sweat of the brow has been a token of ability to earn bread.

The every day work of life is the work of the hand. The woman in the kitchen, whether she be the housewife or maid, is a hand oiler. The man on the farm, whether the proprietor or employee, accomplishes with the hand. The army of men and women employed in all the great industries that have made this country famous, are obeying the injunction given to Adam so long ago, "by the sweat of thy brow thou shalt earn thy bread," and so the race has developed into a race of hand toilers.

Some of the early descendants of Adam discovered that the work of the hand could be lightened by adding to it the work of the brain and from the time the discovery was made until the present, the brain has been called upon for contribution. As a result skill has developed and so in every department of industrial life skilled artisans are found.

To give profitable employment to this great army of workmen, it was necessary that the art of making money with money should be thoroughly studied, and men who possessed this peculiar ability, turned their brain force to work on this problem. Some of them succeeded, but many more of them failed.

Failure is one of the propositions that labor seldom takes into account. The man who earns from two to four dollars per day seldom falls in his income unless sick. If one employer falls, another takes his place, and the work goes on. He is never annoyed by the state of the market or the Saturday night pay roll. If a sympathetic strike calls him out, his thought is for the striker and not for the employer.

What this country needs today, is a more thorough appreciation of the men who stand behind the great industries, and uncomplainingly invest brain and money for the benefit of humanity. The complaint is made that they make money. Why shouldn't they? Labor certainly loses nothing in the operation.

The world has need of this class of men, and never more so than today. There are undeveloped and half developed industries in Janesville today, waiting for men to take hold of them, who possess the ability to handle them successfully. Factory buildings are idle, not for lack of workmen, but for lack of financial genius and ability to keep the wheels in motion.

The man who invests brain and money in any legitimate enterprise that furnishes employment, is a blessing to the race, because the most of us are dependent upon this class of men for a living.

There will be more sunshine and less cloud, more roses and less rain, more contentment and less complaint, when humanity accepts the conditions of life and cheerfully works out a destiny in the niche, where individual lot is cast. There is an abundance of room for capital and the men who are able to handle it. The more it is encouraged the greater will be the opportunities for labor. The two will never be divorced and they should work together in perfect harmony.

The Gazette has fifty-one correspondents in the county and every last one of them takes a lively interest in the paper. The weekly is published in two sections and 3,300 copies of each find a welcome in the homes of Rock county farmers every week. The daily and weekly is read by 25,000 people every week. This represents more than half the population of the county. Janesville merchants can find no other medium so good for talking to customers.

The postponement of the coronation is a serious financial loss to London, and a great disappointment to the nation. King Edward had spent a life time in waiting for the throne. His serious illness has placed him before the world in a light that would not otherwise have been possible and an earnest desire for his recovery is expressed on every hand.

Populism and Democracy have fused in Nebraska. This takes in all there is of Bryanism in the state and leaves the gold democrats no choice but to work with the republicans and save the state from fanaticism. This they will do and the republican ticket will win by a good majority.

Madison supported 2,000 Democrats in 1900. That speaks well for the lunacy of the capitol city. Five hundred of these ardent disciples voted for LaFollette last week. This was doubtless the populist element of "fair-minded" democrats.

The weather prophet, who predicts storm and disaster as the prevailing conditions, is not much amiss this season. If science has anything to offer by way of explanation it will be generally appreciated.

If Dahle has entertained any doubts about his betrayal, they must have been dissolved when his friend Eli Pederson took a hand in the deal. For an all-around pacifier, Eli takes the bakery.

Small boys who are anxious to enjoy the Fourth and want to begin celebration at once, must remember that undue haste with fire crackers may cause him to miss that glorious day.

Several of the city pastors propose to unite and take the church to the people. An open air park service will be tried in the park the first Sunday evening in July.

The game of politics is a little peculiar to say the least. If there are any tricks in the trade that the governor has not discovered they are hardly worth uncovering.

If some of the vim and violence with which the motormen on the cars twitch the tail of the controller had been applied in the day of mule motor, results might have been different.

It does not matter to the inmates of Waupun whether the state board of control appointed a new warden or not, they all have time to wait.

Should LaFollette be re-nominated, Nils Haugen's Superior speech will come to life again and his populist cry against Senator Spooner will be heard.

PRESS COMMENT

Monroe Sentinel: The LaFollette papers are circulating a story that the Stalwart managers in Dane county spent $25,000 to carry the caucuses. The boasting of the Milwaukee Free Press that it has the endorsement of Gov. LaFollette, asking a straight-forward, honorable and ably conducted republican newspaper, publishes the lie with characteristic indorsement, and the whole pack take it up and shout it down the wind. The facts are that about eight hundred dollars were expended! This money was not used to buy votes and LaFollette voters or democratic voters. It was used as legitimate expenses for livery and drivers in getting the stalwart voters to the caucuses and making the preliminary canvasses for delegates. Just as legitimate as getting men to work at the poles on election day to get out the voters. Affidavits are made to this effect. League headquarters had nothing to do with this work. It is the old "stop thief" cry. We question the honesty of a newspaper or a man who will start such ridiculous stories for political effect.

Milwaukee Journal: The Oshkosh Northwestern makes some very stupid blunders. It says: "Milwaukee county is entitled to forty-six delegates in the state convention," and "the expectation of the governor's supporters is that a considerable majority of the delegates will be favorable to his renomination." In the first place, Milwaukee is entitled to 116 delegates and none of Gov. LaFollette's friends here make the claim that he will get the majority of the delegates from this county. If they should elect them, it would be as much of a surprise to them as to anybody else. Milwaukee is one of the counties in which the governor is likely to lose votes; four years ago he had sixty-one delegates against seventy-nine for Gov. Scofield.

Hudson StarTimes: The only way to get Spooner endorsed at the Madison convention is to have enough stalwarts there to "demand it." LaFollette sweeps the decks, you may rest assured there will be no resolution for the brilliant senator, unless it be one of condolence. St. Croix county should make Spooner's return a certainty by electing thirteen delegates pledged to favor his fortunes. Honest John Whitehead and brilliant John Spooner should be the people's favorites. They do things without stirring their party to mutiny.

An exchange says that the biggest trust, it trusts everybody, gets cussed. It is the country newspaper trust. It trusts everybody, gets cussed for trusting, mistrusted for cussing, and if it busts for trusting, gets cussed for busting. —Chippewa Herald.

LaCrosse Press: Gov. LaFollette will have to go into the republican state convention with a majority in order to capture the gubernatorial renomination. There are some first-class politicians on the other side and they will all be at the convention.

No alarm need be felt that Brown county will not be represented at the state convention, even though the delegates have to go to Madison to attend it. They will be there without fail and they will vote for a Stalwart candidate for governor. —Green Bay Gazette.

This trustworthy description of the political situation is from the Manitowish Times-Press, edited by Brer Kress, the latter writer: So far the Stalwarts have whipped the LaFollette. The governor's turndown seems certain.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Lord Wolsey admits that the American soldiers are the best in the world. That's nothing—his ancestors found out the same thing over one hundred years ago.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: Vaudeville shows are to be introduced on the ocean steamships this summer. This will have a tendency to reconcile passengers to their staterooms.

Boston Globe: The discovery of a big still in active operation in the heart of New York city is evidence that the moon shines on other places besides North Carolina and Kentucky.

Marquette Eagle: Half a dozen votes would have changed the "Great LaFollette victory" in Dane county, to a very crushing defeat.

Milwaukee Journal: So long as Rock county can raise its own sugar, tobacco and politics, nothing more is needed in the way of industries.

The prohibition candidate for governor, E. W. Drake, has not announced whether he is in favor of LaFollette or Whitehead. —Marquette Eagle.

GRADUATES PLAN THEIR FUTURES

MANY TO ATTEND UNIVERSITY

One-Third of the Class Will Continue Study, and Some Will Teach

Of the fifty-six young people who recently graduated from the Janesville High school at least nineteen intend to continue their studies at some higher institution of learning. Five are undecided as to their future and sixteen young people expect to remain at home for the present but doubtless next autumn will find some of them in the freshman class at the university or college. Eight of the members of the class of 1962 will go into the school room again but it will be in a new capacity—that of teacher. Five of the young people will enter upon a business career when vacation has brought them a well-earned rest after their studies.

To Attend U. of W.
The University will receive a large number of the graduates who wish to supplement their high school work with a higher education. Those who have definitely decided to attend the state university are Eureka Kimball, Walter Anderson, Rollin C. Lewis, Louise Merrill, Isabella S. MacLean, Stephen L. Pitcher, Ella Sutherland and Merrill H. Crissey. Mr. Crissey will work his way through the university by securing a position as a stenographer at Madison.

There are others who may determine upon the state university. H. Dean Bemis not having decided yet between the University of Wisconsin and Chicago University. Frank Holt will be another university student if he does not decide in favor of the Milwaukee normal school. Harry R. Stanton will either enter the university or go on the road as a traveling salesman.

Other Collegians
Miss Lucy B. V. Biglow will attend Lawrence university and Edwin F. Sanders will enter Beloit college. Luella Gaarder will attend some college but her choice has not been made. Margaret Sullivan expects to attend the Whitewater normal school though she may teach for a while first.

For Special Work
Four of the graduates will plan their future education along special lines. Margaret Cochran and Fanny Bennett will prepare to teach domestic art. Bethana Miller will fit herself for a kindergarten teacher and William Day will study electrical engineering.

To Teach School
Those who expect to become teachers next fall are Harriet Cox, Edna Wright, Emma Sater, Elizabeth Green, Edith Lits, Josephine Enright, Florence Kingman and Gertrude J. Scott. The business people are Ross Bump, who will enter a wholesale house in Chicago; Lester Strang, who is to be the manager of a general store at Footville; Matthew D. Roberts, who will go to farming in the town of Center; Blanche Casson, who will become a clerk; and Gertrude Van Beynum, a stenographer.

Will Stay at Home
The young people who expect to remain at home for the next year at least are Mary Stevens, Catherine Blunk, Elsie Fathers, Alice Crawford, Gladys Nicholson, May E. Merritt, Mida L. Brown-Abeling.
On tomorrow there will be celebrated in New York City a marriage which will be of interest to many Janesville people, owing to the fact that the bride formerly made her home in this city. The high contracting parties to be Miss Anna B. Brown and Frederick J. Abeling and the wedding is to be a very quiet one, owing to the recent death of Mr. Abeling's mother. The marriage ceremony will be performed at the home of the groom's sister, on Riverside Drive and Snerry, the noted New York caterer, will serve the supper.

The groom is a wealthy New York club man and the first two weeks of the honeymoon will be spent on his yacht. This ocean trip will be followed by a visit to Washington, D. C., and Palm Beach, Florida, and on their return to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Abeling will go to housekeeping in a handsomely furnished flat at 309 W. Twenty-fourth street.

The bride-to-be is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown, of Long Beach, Cal., formerly of Janesville and a sister of Mrs. J. L. Fletcher, of this city, whom she recently visited. For several years she has made her home in New York.

Nolan-McCue.

The marriage of Miss Esther Nolan and Edward J. McCue, of Chicago, both former residents of this city, took place in the church of the Blessed Sacrament on Wednesday, June 18. Rev. Father Dunn, officiating. Miss Marie Goutevele, of Chicago, was the bridesmaid and Thomas S. Nolan, of this city, brother of the bride, was the groom's attendant. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McCue gave a small wedding reception at their costly furnished flat, 979 Lonsdale avenue, only a few intimate friends being the guests. Mr. and Mrs. McCue are still receiving congratulations on their happiness and they have the best wishes of a large circle of friends, both in this city and in Chicago.

Just before death came the child asked her sister Pearl to sing to her and when the last notes of "Sunshine in My Soul" died away she said: "God will be good to me."

The child who passed out into the unknown with such confident faith was thirteen years old on the first day of last February. She was a happy natured child and was a student in the seventh grade at the Adams school.

Funeral services will be held from the home on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

PLACE NEW OIL STORAGE TANK

GAS COMPANY INSTALLS ONE

Intended for Storage of 17,000 Gallons, as a Protection Against Shortage.

A new oil tank is under process of construction at the gas works to allow of the storage of a greater supply of oil against any possible shortage.

Hitherto the crude oil, the essential element in the manufacture of gas has been kept in three tanks of a capacity of 6,000 or 7,000 gallons each. Fear has been felt lest a tie up on the railroads or a corner on the market might prevent the shipping of more oil in the city and cause the closing down of the plant.

A Big Tank
The new tank is to have a capacity of 17,000 gallons and to be of metal open at the top save for a water seal. It is to be enclosed in an outer pit whose walls are being constructed of brick and cement absolutely water tight. In case of any corrosion or leakage of the tank the oil will not be lost but retained by the brick wall.

The lower section of the main gas tank at the works is under going improvement in the shape of a thorough scraping and painting.

Leakage in the shell would be likely to result in a disastrous explosion and the work being done is designed as a safe guard against corrosion or moting.

RAILWAY NOTES

Foundation Finished: The foundation for the baggage and express rooms at the new St. Paul station is completed and the masons have started on the walls for the engine and boiler room under the main part of the station. The grading for the balance of the foundation and car sheds will be completed in a day or two. The company has not yet decided the route for the sewer from the station to the river, but it will probably be run down the company's right of way.

At Work in Yards: The C. M. & St. P. railroad have a large force of men at work in their North Main street yard putting in a new track to the freight house. The work will be finished today and will give the company three car tracks back of the freight house.

Successful Excursion: The union Sunday school excursion to Geneva Lake yesterday was a success in every particular and nothing happened to mar the pleasures of the day. The party returned home last evening at 7:15 well pleased with the outing and the way that the St. Paul officials looked after their comfort.

THE IDEAL HOSTESS.

She Must Cultivate an Imperturbable Calm, a Ready Tact and a Pleasant Voice.

To be a successful hostess a woman must have tact, amiability and be able to assume an air of indifference when accidents occur before the eyes of her guests. She may possess wealth untold, she may have the kindest of hearts and the brightest of minds, but unless she has absolute control of her feelings there will be some time in her career as hostess that she will display annoyance or flurry, and the contagion, spreading to her guests, will cause an otherwise successful entertainment to result in undisguised failure. A model hostess must to all appearances be made of stone, so far as disagreeable happenings are concerned. Even though a guest or careless waiter inadvertently breaks a bit of china which can never be replaced, she must smile as though the loss of the entire set would but emphasize the pleasure of the evening. Her well-bred calm inspires her guests with a feeling of confidence, and though in her heart she may be very dubious about certain important details of her dinner or dance, if she does not show her anxiety everything will pass off to a happy conclusion. A flurried hostess or nervous host whose countenances but badly conceal the worry they feel can do more toward making the guests uncomfortable than if the soup were served stone cold. An imperturbable calm and a ready tact are the two important factors in the making of a model hostess. Secure these and you need never fear for the success of your entertainments.—N. Y. Weekly.

Not the Music of Bullfrogs.

Recently a traveling man visited Clarksville for the first time, and while there remarked to the editor of the Record that while he had been in most of the towns of the United States and Canada he had never before heard such a loud and discordant croaking of bullfrogs. "Bullfrogs!" gasped the editor. "Great Scott, man! That is not bullfrogs. That's the Clarksville band!"

Don't be persuaded into taking something said to be "just as good" as Madison Medicine Co.'s Rocky Mountain Tea. There is nothing like it. 30 cents, no more, no less. Smith's Pharmacy.

TO INVESTIGATE THE COAL TRUST

President Orders Attorney-General to Get at the Facts.

CAUTIOUS ABOUT NEW SUITS

Awaits Decision in Litigation Already Commenced Before Proceeding Further Under Anti-Trust Law at the Present Time.

Washington, June 23.—President Roosevelt has requested Attorney General Knox to make an examination of facts connected with so-called anthracite coal trust or combination, with a view to ascertaining the exact legal status of the great railroads and coal companies that are acting in harmony for the purpose of regulating the price of coal, miners' wages, etc.

This does not necessarily mean that the attorney general will proceed against the coal combination, as he has already done against the Northern Securities company and the beef trust, but the chances are that action will be taken when the whole question has been thoroughly examined. Matters are crystallizing in that direction, although the President told callers he had not made up his mind one way or the other.

The President has in his possession the report of Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, who made an investigation for Mr. Roosevelt of the matters in dispute between the coal operators and the miners.

It is not thought the report of Commissioner Wright has any bearing whatever on the question of the existence of a hard coal trust and of the violation by that trust of the Sherman anti-trust law and interstate commerce law. Mr. Wright's report, it is understood, is devoted largely to points actually in controversy between the operators and the miners and the claims put forth by both sides, and endeavoring to fix the responsibility for the strike.

Railroads Regulate Prices.

It has been alleged that the railroads, through their presidents, agree that one price of coal shall prevail at different points, that sales agents of roads shall meet at stated periods and fix the price of coal, that the output of the coal mines is absolutely regulated by the railroads, and can be increased or curtailed at a moment's notice, and is so increased and curtailed. In other words, there is said to be no difficulty whatever in getting proof that the railroads fix the price of anthracite to the consumer just as they fix the wages of the miner, the only difference at this time being that the price of coal is higher than ever before while the wages of the miner remains stationary.

At the same time the President hesitates about taking a step which may have serious consequences to the entire business world. He will not adopt as his policy a war on the great combinations of capital.

President is Cautious.

He would like to single out the good trusts from the bad trusts. Also, before he countenances any further legal actions against such combinations, he would like to know how litigation which he has already instituted is coming out. There is a question which he alone must determine after he hears from the attorney general.

Attorney General Knox, it is understood, is inclined to discourage the President from proceeding against the coal trust at this time. His department now has under way four great prosecutions, including that against the beef trust. He thinks he should be permitted to bring these cases to an issue before he is called on to proceed against any more trusts. If the government should win these cases, the decision of the final court will, of course, settle the question involved, and such combinations as the coal trust would have to cease and either return to the old competitive system or reorganize on new lines.

"AS A MAN IS ABLE."

BY ANNIE REESE LOCKE.

The throng had separated him from his party, but he knew that they would presently meet, so he threaded his way leisurely through the gay crowd; his progress constantly barred by the greeting of old friends. He wondered if she was there, and smiled slightly as he told himself how little he really cared one way or the other—and yet it would be a pleasure to show her how entirely he had outlived it all; and he would like, too, to see if she were satisfied with the fate she had chosen.

He saw her at once when he reached the dining-room. She was seated at the head of the table, which glittered and sparkled under the roseglow of shaded candles. But the luster of cut glass and silver was dimmed by her radiant beauty. Though the old love was completely exorcised, Peniston felt his pulses leap as he gazed from the doorway, fascinated by her marvelous loveliness.

Like a magnet she had drawn the men in the room to her side, so that Peniston had some difficulty in reaching her chair. "My beverage is more substantial than Hebe's," she was saying to one of her admirers, who had likened her to that goddess dispensing nectar. Smiling gayly she lifted one of the fragile tenebrons, and at the same moment raised her eyes and gazed straight into Peniston's face. The cup slipped from her grasp, and fell, a shattered heap, upon the table, while her long-lashed lids drooped for a moment upon cheeks that had suddenly lost their pomegranate stain.

"How do you do?" said he, ignoring the broken china, and holding out his hand. She returned his clasp with more pressure than he had expected, and the glad color ebbed back to cheek and lip, while her eyes glowed with an additional brilliancy.

She looked impatiently at the men who were hanging on every word.

"Kitty, dear, won't you take my place for a little?" she cried, to a girl near by.

"I have poured 50 cups of tea; and am a perfect wreck."

Kitty good-naturedly assented, and Mrs. Hardaway turned to Peniston:

"I want you to come with me and tell me what you have been doing all these years." She smiled and nodded to the group of men, as she strolled off on Peniston's arm.

"There is a charming window seat in the hall, where we can have a comfortable tete-a-tete," she said.

Peniston felt a vague premonition of danger as he reluctantly followed her down the hall.

"Well," said Mrs. Hardaway, after waiting for him to take the initiative, until the silence became constrained. "You are looking the better for your trip."

"Thanks. I have enjoyed it immensely."

"It's very rude of you to say so," said she, with a low, musical laugh; the laugh that had echoed so many times in Peniston's memory.

"And what is more, if you will excuse my saying so, I don't believe a word of it," she added, lightly.

Peniston, though not a particularly egotistical man, could not fail to construe the expression of her eyes as very flattering to himself. Instead of being in ecstasy, however, he was dismayed.

"There has been no need of such self-effacement on your part," she continued.

"You rushed away as soon as I became engaged to Mr. Hardaway, not even giving me your address, so that I could write and tell you that I had no objection to your writing to me. Why shouldn't we make the separation as easy as possible?"

He was becoming uneasy, but he pulled himself together and replied:

"Do you think it would have been any pleasure to me, as I felt then, to have corresponded with the affianced wife of another man?"

"How foolishly jealous you are," said she, laughing again. "But we haven't long to wait, John—the old man is daily growing more feeble." She laid her ringed hand lightly, affectionately, upon his, but Peniston, with a dawning horror in his face, shrunk back.

"Charlotte—great heaven! what do you mean?"

"Are you affecting to misunderstand?" she asked, slowly. "Is it your excessive refinement and reserve that make you dislike to discuss our scheme?"

"What scheme?"

The faces that framed her white bosom were rising and falling tumultuously in the gathering storm of passion.

"I see it all—blind fool that I have been to fancy a man could remain constant! The poet was right:

"Thus, if you will prove me, dear Woman's love no fable,
I will love you—half a year,
As a man is able."

She crushed the ivory fan in her hand.

"I would not be such a coward if I were you. Why not say you have ceased to love me? Why pretend such ignorance?"

"Will you kindly tell me what you are talking about? I am completely in the dark."

His studiously polite tone stemmed the flood of her anger.

"Please carry your recumbent memory four years back, to a time when you and I were discussing our marriage. It was New Year's day, and we were driving—"

"I remember," said he, shortly.

She lifted her brows sarcastically.

"Well, you may not remember that you were much depressed, and that you said you saw no prospect of our marriage unless one of us married a fortune and bided our time until death enabled us to make one another happy."

"It was a jest. My God! did you act on that?"

"Yes; I thought you understood."

He looked at her miserably. "And did you care so much for luxury, for wealth, as to buy it at such a price?" he asked, pityingly, though he could not ward off his horror of the deed.

"I did it for your sake entirely," and her tone and eyes carried conviction.

"It has been a comedy of errors—a tragedy, rather. Oh, if you understood the horror of the past three years! It has been death in life."

"Poor girl! Can you ever forgive me?" he said, gently.

She looked searchingly at him for a minute, and the flickering hope she had held died.

"We will try to forget this conversation," said she, calling up her pride. "Will you take me back to the tearroom now? Poor Kitty must be in despair."

At the door they came face to face with a dainty little lady, who smiled up at Peniston.

"I was looking for you," she said; and then blushed prettily as she saw the gorgeous beauty beside him.

Peniston inwardly groaned at the unlucky encounter.

"Mrs. Hardaway," said he, nervously, "let me introduce my wife."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

GLORY OF A GOOD NAME

A Prominent Chicago Woman Writing to Mrs. Pinkham Says:

"Honor to Whom Honor is Due, and You Deserve Both the Thanks and Honor of the Mothers of America Whom You Have So Blessedly Benefited."

After years of struggle to attain public confidence, with a firm and steadfast belief that some day others will recognize in us the truth, good faith and honesty of purpose that we know we possess, what a genuine satisfaction it is to have succeeded and to feel the uplifting influence of the merited confidence of the vast army of our fellow beings.

This is the standing of Mrs. Pinkham among the women of America today, and Mrs. Brown's letter which we have the great privilege to herewith publish, with her portrait, is only another visible evidence of this truth, and that of all the medicines for women's ills in the world Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands today pre-eminently at the head.

MRS. MAY BROWN,

Chairman Program Committee, Westside Literary Union, Chicago, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—'Honor to whom honor is due,' and you deserve both the thanks and honor of the mothers of America whom you have so blessedly helped and benefited. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I would feel run-down or have any of the aches and pains which but few women escape, and I have found that it relieved me at once and gave me new strength. Several ladies, members of our Literary Union, speak in highest praise of your Vegetable Compound, as they have been cured from serious female troubles. One lady, who thought she must submit to an operation was cured without using anything in the world but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. You have hosts of friends in Chicago, and if you came to visit our city we would delight to do you honor. Gratefully yours,—MRS. MAY BROWN, 67 Grant Place, Chicago, Ill."

"How Mrs. Pinkham Helped Mrs. McKinny."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write and let you know the good you and your Vegetable Compound are doing. I had been sick ever since my first baby was born, and at the birth of my second, my doctor, as well as myself thought I should never live through it. After that menstruation never came regular and when it came I suffered terribly. I also had womb and ovarian trouble. A friend of my husband's advised him to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me. At first I had no faith in it, but now nothing could induce me to be without it. Menstruation has become regular and I feel like a new woman. Your medicine is a God-send to suffering women. I hope this letter will lead others to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Yours truly, MRS. MILDRED MCKINNY, 28 Pearl St., San Francisco, Cal. (March 16, 1901).

If there is anything in your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. Address is Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

THAT TERRIBLE TURK

Explains His Holds to the Boys and Many Wonder At Results

There are a few young men in the city who have reason to remember Youssef, the Terrible Turk for some time to come. The great wrestler gave W. W. After supper last evening he was taken with a spasm and before a physician could be summoned, died.

THE GIRL WE ADMIRE.

She Has a Sunny Disposition and the Gift of Smiling Away the Troubles of Life.

The most lovable girls in the world are those with a sunny disposition. A few people like the quiet, thoughtful girl; others like the girl who is perpetually vivacious and bubbling over with spirits. But every one likes the girl with the cheerful, sunny disposition. Girls of this character are never extravagantly boisterous or dimly quiet; they have a pleasant smile for every one. They never seem troubled or worried, their voice is low and musical, and their smile—be they pretty or not—is always sweet.

The only trouble that the sunny-tempered girl has is the outcome of her popularity. Every one wants to talk to her, and be in her company. Young men are attracted to her without effort on her part, for her character shows itself so plainly in her actions that young men are so delighted at the cheeriness and sympathy of her nature that they are drawn to her at once.

For every reason, then, the girl with the sunny disposition, who smiles away the troubles of life, is a favorite. And, what is more, old people are just as charmed by her as are those of about her own age.—N. Y. Weekly.
